DEATH.

At sea, on board the steamer "Gleneavy," H. E. STEELE, of Tokushima, aged 40. (By telegram.)

THE P. &amp; O. steamer Condor left Singapore for this port yesterday at 6 A.M.

A Japanese paper reports that the Cardigan-ster was sold to the Hokkaido Coal Mining and Railway Co. It is believed to be 216,000 sterlings.

Information has been received by Messrs. Doolittle, Carrill &amp; Co., the agents, that the steamer "Kuang-kuo," from Hungary to "Hongkong," and the steamer "Kuang-kuo," from the Hainan Islands, was captured and would get off discharging about a thousand tons of her cargo into lighter.

At Yokohama on the 1st inst. two men each in the water outside the Grand Hotel, 100 Mexican dollars; and the next morning five men discovered in front of No. 3 four packages of 80 each. The money has been handed over to the police who believe it is stolen coin thrown into the water by a thief. Others are of opinion that it belongs to the woman who committed suicide on the 1st a few weeks ago.

An invitation from the Shanghai Cricket Club to the Koko Cricket Club to send over a team to play an inter-club match in the coming autumn has been accepted. Yokohama, the N. Daily News says, will probably assist in the organization of the team, which will then be hosted by the other club respectively.

The date of the first will not be known.

At a extraordinary general meeting of Doolittle Brothers &amp; Co., it is decided to hold at Yokohama on the 23rd June, the following resolution will be proposed: "That the capital of the Company be reduced from $10,000 to $5,000 by calling up paid up capital to the extent of $40 per share in respect of each of the shares of $100, and to the extent of $10 per share of $50 per share in respect of each of the 100 founders' shares of $50 each, and reducing the nominal amount of such shares respectively pro rata."

REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.

SUPPLIED TO THE "DAILY PRESS."

FRANCE AND THE CONGO.

The French Chamber has adopted a special vote, chiefly we believe for the province that Chibti being the metropolitan province that is thought desirable that there should be a few mutations in its administration as possible. Moreover it may be open to doubt whether the great Li Hung-chang, who has so long and for himself so very profitably held this post would care to vacate it in favour of some present subordinate or possible rival. But with this exception the Viceroys are all readily removable, and few of them succeed in achieving a second term unless under some special circumstances.

This, however, is what His Excellency Liu

Ku-ku-ku, Viceroy of the Liang Kiang, has succeeded in accomplishing and under rather peculiar circumstances. There has been a difference between himself and the Grand Council, an official having been appointed in his viceroyalty who was never come to him. Thereupon, his three years tenure of office was being nearly completed.

Liu Ku-ku tendered his resignation at the end of the term. This was not desired by the Imperial Government, who in the present condition of the Kiang province are anxious to retain Liu Ku-ku in Nanking.

They have, therefore, given way, the obnoxious official is honored, and the Viceroy is re-appointed for another term of three years, being told, "if course, in flattering language, that his services are indispensable to the Emperor." And so in all probability they are at the present juncture when sedition has struck deep roots in the central provinces, and it is imperative that the Government should be represented in Nanking, the old Ming capital, by a trusted Human official. Not that we think there is any prospect of the outbreak of any formidable rebellion, but with another Victory loss as certain to the population, there might be trouble, the Koko Hu being quite ready and disposed to provoke it if they saw the least chance of success. What is of far more importance than the vagaries of this body of conspirators is the tendency any indication of disloyalty has to throw suspicion on the patriotism and loyalty of Christian converts. If the secret history of the anti-missionary outbreak in the Yangtze Valley during the past three years could be disclosed, it would, we think, be found that the Koko Hu was a fated up affair to cover a still more sinister movement, for the whole sabotage of foreigners from the interior.

DISTURBANCES IN CANTON.

TWO LADIES ATTACKED.

Serious news was received from Canton yesterday, which alarming in its itself sufficient danger to the European community in Sanghamen, which added to other rumours recently current, cannot be treated with indifference.

The actual details of the occurrence are difficult to learn, but the facts as we learn them are as follows: Two ladies, connected with the American Presbyterian Mission, Miss Fuller and Mrs. Hayes, were out walking on the morning of the 11th at Hsien-an. A Chin-man, immediately in front of them, suddenly fell down in a swoon (as he had frequently done) and the maid-servants of the two ladies immediately ran to his assistance, and one of them, Mrs. Hayes, was so much distressed by the sight that she fainted.

The maid-servants, however, were able to raise the Chinaman, and one of them, Mrs. Hayes, was

sight that she fainted.

OLLA PODRIDA.

A robber met a coal dealer on a lonely road and stopped him. "Ten francs or your life," said the robber. "I'm a highwayman." "Good enough," continued the coal-dealer. "I'm low enough." They should be friends. And they were.

We tender our respectful congratulations to Mr. Thomas Hardy (of Wessex). J. P. is now asked what he will do if "Tess" is brought before his judgment seat? We venture to believe that Tess will not come before him; but it is done. Mr. Hardy, like a sensible man, will commit her for trial, and "take it out" after words in another fine book.

One of speakers at a recent important debate held before Oxford Congregation is well known as an exceedingly dry humorist, and in explaining how an involuntary seizure might be avoided, he said: "Perhaps, I can illustrate my proposition thus. I throw a stone at a cat. I mean to hit the cat, and that is a voluntary action. The stone, however, strikes my mother-in-law. That action was involuntary, but I say, 'Well, it is my mother-in-law's fault, for instance, if a man comes into this room with two revolvers and said, 'I'm that, Professor—about?' You would be quite right to say 'No'—examine I under the table.'

Don Carlos, who was on the 23rd April married for the second time, to the Princess de Rohan at Prague, is, in general, in a parlous state at least, "every inch a King." This representative of the Bourbons is over the fever in height, and is a Spaniard of very aristocratic bearing, having massive shoulders, a large head and almost perfectly black hair. "This beard on one occasion saved him from the attentions of the Spanish detectives when he was staying in a hotel in Piccadilly. By shaving it off he succeeded in eluding them and taking up his residence in the private house of the English people, Mrs. Longdon, who is said to be very fond of him, and who is a scion in the family. Don Carlos is something of a Bohemian in his tastes, and 12 years ago, when the short-lived Falstaff Club was in existence, was seen more than once there, enjoying his cigar and brandy and cards at the smoking concerts, with the present Duke of Coburg performing on the violin.

The Editor of Musical Opinion writes the St. James's Gazette:—We have received a letter from Mr. F. Nisbitt Crouch, of Baltimore, U.S.A., composer of the above song and many others. He is not a man of wealth, but has probably a large fortune. He says that he foolishly gave up his position in London to establish Italian opera in America, with Max Miratzen, in 1849. This appeared to have been a failure. Since that period Crouch has had fortune in Portugal, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, Richmond, and Baltimore. He says that he has now come to the end of his work and is in distress.

Kathleen Mayneord, the young actress, is the daughter of the author of the novel of the same name, world-wide heart's delight and darling.

In pathos too sweet for the tenderest wondr. Mr. Crouch urges us to use our influence in saving for him here a testimonial fund. This we cannot undertake to do; but if any of your readers should care to send on any sum, however small, it will be gratefully received by him and duly acknowledged. He is very old, and has given twice who gives quickly.

Here Dow's bullet-proof jacket, soon to be exhibited and sold at the Royal Mail Steamship Line, is the champion of the shirt-sleeve. It is not likely to be without a trial, or probably several trials, in London. Last February a patent material was registered by an English inventor, which claims to be not only bullet-proof, but sword, dagger, ax, and spear-proof. This patent material can be used to make the casing of torpedoes impossible, and can be used in ships as a covering for the hulls. Another inventor is in the market with a material that resembles compressed felt, and both these materials are said to have been thoroughly tested. The objection raised in the last trial of Dow's cloth is only on account of its being made in the German style, and he promised to have it made in the English style. The material in England, supposing it to be as effective as the German material, is not heavy, and a body jacket would not be an impracticable garment, though somewhat warm for a 20 miles march on a hot day.

A guidman in India, who had been slighted at Gauhati, Sylhet, Assam, and dreading that her destination was King's Cross, and that she had overran it, did not wait for a train to take her back, but set off deliberately to walk through the grimy tunnel to her starting-place. The explanation of this fact seems to have been simple. The aged dame, who must have been fresh from the postures and exercises in which she had been brought up, had a jerk of King's Cross. He had given her a jerk of the thumb towards the tunnel, for answer, and therupon she had set out with a recklessness and a courage which defied realization. What her sufferings in the tunnel were Heaven only knows. Scars of pain can have passed but a few miles from her body, and she had to walk 10 miles to get to the station. The man, who says Cawell, "Sister, I have a soul." We can depict her walking with a mournful tread across the slimy walls, or stamping on the blinding darkness, or listless fearfully in the dim light and roar of the oncoming engine, gave place to lights flashing and the ruddy furnace glow upon the blackened roof. A journey to repeat, the greatest exertion, and the greatest physical effort, would have no ending but death. One hour after this valiant scene had started her mission, she reached King's Cross, faint, weary, begrimed, but unharmed. A strong Providence had guided her in the darkness; an unseen hand had led her to safety. But a more astounding instance of railway hazard I do not know; nor an escape which has so much of the miraculous in it.
